FREE COURSE BY MAIL WITH THE CAPITAL CITY

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE

—TO ADVERTISE—

OUR COLLEGE

We will give a thorough course of instruction in Double and Single Entry Book-keeping and Commercial Arithmetic by mail FREE OF CHARGE to a limited number of persons. This course will be completed in forty lessons. No charge for Diplomas.

Our method of instruction by mail is far superior to that of any other school in the West. Hundreds of testimonials from our patrons testify to this fact, and are on file in our office. The phenomenal success attained in this department prompted us to widely advertise our work, and to make it a special feature of our school.

The Instructions and Exercises are conducted by mail practically in the same manner as those in our College Rooms which makes them equal with personal instruction, and tend the student to a full and clear understanding of the science of accounts.

Our Mail Department

Is under the personal supervision of an able instructor, under whose guidance the highest degree of competency may be attained by correspondence.

We offer the above-named course free to introduce our work in your community. Advertisers of this office are asked to show the superiority of our work to their friends. Address:

Capital City Commercial College,

THE CARSON MINT PROBLEM.

Second Day of the Examination of Jones—Inspector Mason's Testimony Continued—Hirsch Harris Called Up—Interesting Details and Propositions.

(Correspondence of the JOURNAL.)

CARSON CITY, April 24, 1895.

FORENOON SESSION.

Seventeen persons were present in the courtroom at the resumption of the examination, which commenced at 10 A. M. These included the officials, attorneys and witnesses. The books of the mint department were also there. The lot of bullion "shoe" bars used yesterday was taken back to the mint last night and a fresh lot weighing 377 pounds was brought in this morning to explain Inspector Mason's testimony. These "shoe" bars are about a foot long, four inches wide and an inch and a half thick, partially divided crosswise into three divisions with a big heavy chisel. Some of them were principally gold, the others principally silver, and, otherwise.

The testimony of Inspector Mason was resumed, and he was questioned considerably by General Clarke in order to bring out more positively the facts elicited in his testimony of yesterday. He repeated his statement that the stealage commenced after the clean-up of June, 1892, demonstrating the fact by the bookkeeping system of the mint.

Witness was very closely cross-examined by Coffin for the defense, and replied very explicitly and with the utmost composure. He stated that he had no personal feeling whatever against the defendant, Jones, endeavoring merely to ascertain where the shortage came in, as directed from Washington, and locate the delinquent or guilty party or parties to the extent of his perceptive abilities. He had reasons for fixing the delinquency upon defendant, and therefore it was that he had caused him to be arrested, in order to properly bring the matter into court. He had found that the shortage commenced under the former administration and was continued in this, explaining considerably relative to the monkeying with gold bar No. 77, bullion from the Standard mine, Bodie, which was the first tangible point he struck in the guilty shortage.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The cross-examination of Mason was resumed and witness explicitly stated his theory of the shortage was that it commenced in June, 1893, when the deposit of $23,000 from the Standard mine came to the mint, the remelting of which showed a value of only $3,000, showing $20,000 loss, silver having been surreptitiously substituted for gold. He said this change could only have been made in Jones' department.

"My God, that looks pretty rough on me," remarked Jones, smilingly.

Hirsch Harris, melter and refiner of the mint, was next called upon the stand. He testified as to his first apprehensions and discovery of the shortage, from finding a lack of the proper proportion called for of gold in the bullion—an excess of silver, and the measures he immediately took to find out the explanation, notifying the Superintendent promptly, regarding the important matter. He had found a duplicate key in Mr. Jones' desk, and other very suspicious circumstances in the matter before he finally concluded to suspend him.

Harris' testimony occupied the rest of the afternoon till nearly 5 o'clock, when adjournment was taken till 10 A. M. to-morrow.

The defense desires to eliminate all the testimony the prosecution has to offer, and the proposition on the part of the prosecution is to produce sufficient evidence to hold Jones to appear before the U. S. Grand Jury.

Henry and Piper have not arrived, neither has Detective Harris.

OPPOSED TO CREMATION.

The Masonic Fraternity Hold That It Is Not Christian Burial.

Charles H. Reisser of Philadelphia was a member of Rising Star Lodge, F. & A. M., and of Oriental Chapter, R. A. M., and Kadash Commandery. It had always been his wish to be cremated after his death, and his family decided to follow his wishes. The Masonic Fraternity was invited to participate in the funeral ceremonies, but before they accepted they learned that it was the intention to have the services at the time the body was cremated. The matter was referred to the Grand Master of Pennsylvania, Judge Arnold, who promptly decided that cremation was not Christian burial under Masonic law. The family, therefore, decided to abandon their original intention, and the Masons attended the funeral in a body and performed Masonic rites at the grave.

A Big Tooth.

While working on their placer claim in Gold Canyon last week, the King boys found an immense tooth. The masticator was found at a depth of about seven feet below the surface, and unfortunately split in two in taking it out, as the boys had no idea what they were unearthing. The tooth is about twenty inches in circumference and two feet long, and evidently belongs to some species of mammal that roamed this country in the prehistoric age.

Bill Mathison, who is working some ground near the King claim, has also dug up sections of bones of animals which do not inhabit the country at the present day.—Lyons County Times.

THE BASEBALL GAME.

The Virginians Victorious—A Splendidly Contested Game.

A large crowd gathered at the University yesterday afternoon to witness a game of baseball between the University Club and the Nevada Stars of Virginia City. The Stars went to bat promptly at 2:30. Two strike outs and a hit to the pitcher put the first half of the first inning to an end. The Virginians now came to bat and Finlayson "lost the ball" in the ditch, taking second base as per agreement. Three strike-outs left the score zero to zero.

In the second the Stars went out on a foul-out, a fly to center and a hit to first, the Virginians got in two and the score stood 2 to 0.

In the third the Virginians hit Evans for four tallies and the Stars got one. One strike-out, a hit to first and a two-bagger gave the Stars one tally. The Virginians went out in one, two, three order under Evans' curves. Score, 3 to 2.

In the fifth three fan-outs by each pitcher left the score the same.

In the sixth Sullivan became slightly rattled and the Stars rolled up nine tallies. Score, 11 to 7.

Three fan-outs by each pitcher in the seventh again left the score 11 to 7.

In the eighth the Virginians made two and the Stars one. Score, 12 to 9.

A strike-out and two hits to first retired the Stars and the Varsity boys went to bat for the last time. A strike-out, a safe hit to first, a stolen base to second, another strike-out on an attempted steal to third, ended the game.

Quite a large crowd of Reno's prominent ladies and gentlemen, who are interested in the cause of woman suffrage, gathered at the Court-house last night to make arrangements for the reception of Susan B. Anthony and Rev. Anna Shaw, who are to lecture to a Reno audience on the evening of May 17th. Mr. Allen C. Bragg was chosen chairman of the meeting and F. H. Norcross secretary. The following named persons were chosen as an executive committee to make all arrangements for the lecture: A. C. Bragg, Chairman, Miss H. K. Clapp, Mrs. Mila Tupper Maynard, Mrs. J. E. Stubbs, Mrs. D. B. Boyd, Mrs. C. A. Richardson, E. D. Kelley, H. H. Beck, E. R. Dodge, F. H. Norcross. The following were named as members of the executive committee from the outside: Mrs. J. R. Williamson, Austin; Mrs. P. T. Folson, Carson; Mrs. F. G. Hazlet, Dayton; Mrs. M. Simpson, Virginia City; Mrs. Flint, Wadsworth.

The following committee on reception was also appointed: Mrs. Orr, Mrs. Stubbs, Mrs. Maynard and Miss Manning. Sub-committees were also appointed on printing, music, Opera House and to secure reduced rates on the railroads, so that an opportunity will be offered those from the outside to hear these famous women. It was decided that an admission fee of twenty-five cents be charged, just to defray expenses.

The Opera House should be filled to overflowing, for everyone should hear these two gifted women, who have lectured to crowded houses in every great city in the United States. The people of Reno, no matter what opinion they may entertain of the expediency of woman's political enfranchisement, should make it a point to hear Susan B. Anthony, the central figure of one of the greatest social movements of the century.

Good Prospects in Sierra Valley.

Ed. Cambren arrived from Sierra Valley yesterday. He says the snow has about all disappeared from the valley, and the Feather river is booming, but so far is doing no particular damage. The grass has started in splendid shape and the indications are favorable for a good season in all kinds of crops. Mr. Cambren has 500 head of cattle on the way from Surprise Valley, 200 of which he will have driven to Reno, and the remaining 300 will be pastured in Sierra Valley. He had the remains of a sister and her two children who were buried years ago in Sierra Valley taken up and removed to Reno. Mr. Hoskins did the work.

You Don't Have to Swear Off.

Says the St. Louis Journal of Agriculture in an editorial about No-To-Bac, the famous tobacco habit cure. "We know of many cases cured by No-To-Bac, one, a prominent St. Louis Architect, smoked and chewed for twenty years; two boxes cured him so that even the smell of tobacco makes him sick." No-To-Bac sold and guaranteed by S. J. Hodgkinson. No cure no pay. Book free. Sterling Remedy Co. New York and Chicago.

Inflammatory Rheumatism

Much Treatment Without Avail

Hood's Sarsaparilla Effects Beneficial Change in Constitution.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: 'Dear Sirs:—At the age of 10 years I was confined to my bed with inflammatory rheumatism. I was treated by a local physician, but relief only came to me with the warm weather. For 12 years doctoring did me but little good. We read about the great change Hood's Sarsaparilla could effect in the entire constitution. We concluded to give it a trial and it has Made a New Young Man of Me. After taking the contents of three bottles I was able to walk a little. I have continued to take it and have not missed a day for six months. During the bad winter weather nor any time since have I felt any of the symptoms of the return of my rheumatic trouble.' CHAS. O. FAUSNER, Walla Walla, Washington.

tidings that the Indians ravaged once more in Provence, destroying the cities and fields and carrying the people into slavery. Then the lord of Theoclo, without caring to turn his head, remounted his charger, and in silence and tears the lovers parted.

Long time, unwariedly, without vain lamentations, straining her poor eyes until they grew dim with watching from dawn till twilight the always empty road and changeless horizon, Bathilde awaited the return of her heart's lord.

Days and weeks went by, yet no tidings came. Seated at the window from which she had first seen him in the shadows of the summer evening, she wept in silence, and so many and bitter were her tears that twin furrows showed themselves in her cheeks. She slept no more, but wandered through the vast halls and the forest like an uneasy spirit. She became, little by little, so thin and pale that her garments hung flitting upon her. She felt neither hunger nor thirst, and her brain held no other thought than that he loved her no more or was dead, and her heart grew lifeless under this double wound.

She ordered thrown into the sea all her mirrors of silver and of steel. The reflection of her face frightened her like that of a specter. She started at the least noise and grew faint with apprehension whenever a band of horsemen showed itself at the turning of the highway. In person she questioned every pilgrim and traveler and begged that came to the castle gate. Kneeling upon the hard, cold flagstones of the church, she prayed to God and the Virgin and the saints with ardent fervor for the return of him she loved. She emptied her coffers in alms and pious donations to the abbey and the monks. She arrayed the images of the Virgin in her robes of silk and brocade, giving with such feverish haste that she was soon reduced to clothe herself in coarse cloth and went as miserably clad as a beggar.

One day, after she had given until she had nothing more left to bestow—neither ring nor golden belt nor sack of coins—a monk, escaped by a miracle from the Moors, told her that the lord of the isles, surprised in an ambuscade, as was of old the valiant Roland at Roncesvalles, alone against a hundred and weakened by ten wounds, had fallen into the hands of his eternal enemies, and that they demanded for his ransom a thousand golden pieces and ten boxes of precious stones.

What could she do? How could she gather so much gold and jewels? He lived, he pined for her. He felt but the one passion every hour, and she could not succor him. She could not find such a sum. After reflecting two days and nights, fasting alone like one who walks in sleep, Bathilde descended to the city.

It was Palm Sunday. The bells rang full peal. The sun shone from a cloudless sky upon the calm, blue sea. The galleons adorning the masts of ships flattered joyously in the gentle breeze. In the city's streets and squares and along the harbor wall the fresh, bitter odor of broken olive and laurel branches and the scent of sweet marjoram floated upon the soft, warm air of the morning. Maidens were singing. The common people were in gala dress. But as the crowds came to the great open porch of the cathedral all—soldiers and priests, commoners and nobles alike—gathered about a single object.

Kneeling among the wretched mendicants, the crippled, the insane and the blind, into whose eyes no longer entered the blessed daylight, was a woman, pale as one who has been stricken dead with shame and horror. She held out her hands imploring alms in a voice broken with sobs, begging the ransom of Foulques the Fair.

All knew the supplicant. They crowded each other to catch a glimpse of the languid Countess Bathilde, who had been so hard and merciless, who had abused them as if they had been beasts, who had ruled over them as the proud towers of her castle seemed to over the land and sea.

Growing bold, believing her mad, they assailed her with insults and railing. They derided her as they throw in her face pieces of copper and bits of flint and burst into laughter at her figure bent in anguish, and her fevered, staring eyes, where the wells of tears had run dry.

But suddenly her features, her hair, her poor garments shone with a dazzling splendor, and there was a sound in the sky above her like the beat of mighty wings. The copper coins turned to broad pieces of shining gold, and the flints became flaming sapphires, rubies and amethysts. About her head blazed an aureole of dazzling splendor.

Then all the people cried out in wonder, and as she rose followed, singing and glorifying her as a saint. She had become more radiantly beautiful than when, with the leavelight in her eyes, she had first greeted him whom she adored, and with a sweet, grave gesture of adieu she passed from their sight, bearing in her tattered beggar's robe the ransom of Foulques the Fair.

It was thus that the Countess Bathilde saved from shame and death the lord of the isles.—From the French For Short Stories.

Patti's voice is of only moderate strength, there being several of greater power among the operatic singers of the present day, but the compass of her tones is extraordinary, reaching to F in all, and her execution is exceedingly brilliant and polished. Her greatest vocal charm, however, lies in the sympathetic quality of her notes, a quality that instantly impresses every auditor. It is most apparent in the rendition of simple, well known songs, like "Home, Sweet Home" and "Contra Through the Rye," and in these she has achieved such success that, while her repertoire comprises over 80 operas, her fame really rests on two or three familiar songs. She first appeared in opera in New York in 1859.
